

Your window to

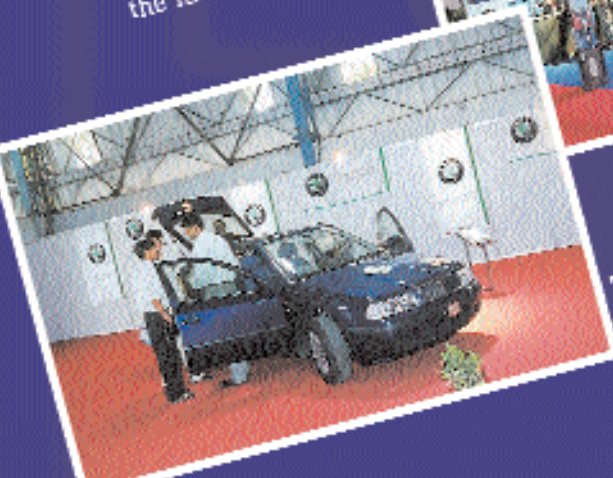

30,000 visitors had their chance to ogle at the coolest devices and gadgetry. Here's a taste in case you didn't make it to the show...

Playground of the Future

When it comes to getting a gamer's hands dirty, there's nothing like a top-of-the-line force feedback joystick and steering wheel! This zone saw the marriage of formidable technologies such as blazing fast gaming machines and funky display systems coupled with lots of heart-pumping adrenaline. Here, people also played with the Sony PSOne gaming console and an array of cool radio controlled toys and gizmos.

Your big chance to get up close with the latest in technology

The Skoda Octavia: Competition for the Ford?

Seagate Digital Home

The Digital Home of the Future provided visitors a host of experiences such as the mindblowing THX home theatre system, an advanced user-controlled lighting and ambience system plus futuristic security and intrusion detection devices.

Five categories, 10 really cool products and looks that would stun your senses — that was the GENi pavilion. With megapixel cameras that fit in the palm of your hands, futuristic MP3 players, digital assistants, the world's smallest laptop and gaming controllers right out of the flight bridge of the Starship Enterprise, this zone was a visual buffet for any techie and gizmo freak.