

◀◀ Sony Vaio PCV-W10 Fashionably slim

The Sony Vaio PCV-W10 is a cleverly-designed slim PC, weighing only 9.5 kg. It has a built-in flat panel display, mouse and keyboard. All you need to do, is plug in the power cable. The integrated speakers and CD player assure that you are never dull, by letting you work and play at the same time. It uses a 60 GB Seagate ST360020A hard disk, and the body of the unit is neatly hidden behind a 15.3-inch, wide-aspect ratio, adjustable liquid-crystal display.

Web site:

<http://news.sel.sony.com/pressrelease/2831>

Dark Beauties

The final destination to indulge your fetish for funky devices

NOKIA 8910i ▶▶ Truly titanium

The Nokia 8910i attracts attention with its full colour screen, and the black outer cover made of pure titanium—Strong as steel, light as aluminium—true titanium makes you instantly aware of possessing the extraordinary.

The phones' slides open smoothly upon touching its subtle side-triggers, thus revealing the keypad and selection keys. Weighing a meagre 112 grams, the 8910i equipped with MMS, Java, High Speed Circuit Switched Data (HSCSD) and GPRS. Bluetooth capabilities support data swapping, and audio transfer with other Bluetooth-enabled devices. The phone packs up to four-and-a-half-hours of talk time, and around 300 hours of standby time.

Web site: <http://www.nokia.com/nokia/0,,4610,00.html>

