

PULSEComputing sorely needs lateral thinking.....22

Leslie D'Monte takes a view of how physics and biology are changing computing, and their relevance to end users.

Worth Fitting in this Groove....24

Ashok Hingorani is fired about the one software that promises security, privacy and reliability—Groove

Undue Credit.....26

Vipul Shah is clear about why we don't use credit cards online. He predicts we may not want to do so.

"I've not shot film in six years".....27

Dennis Biela, who has moved away from still cameras, talks about photography in the Digital Age

FEATURESAre You on the Right Course?..36

Computer institutes or bachelor degrees? Experience or qualifications? Which is the right course to success?

INSIGHTCopy in Seconds92

Back up your dearer-than-life data, using Second Copy 2000

Stay Connected.....99

Tricks to set up your Network; Tips to make sure you stay that way

ARCADEStuck in a Moment.....114

The fledgling gaming industry in India is reluctantly venturing out of its nest. Is it strong enough to fly?

Off days, Online

Take a break. Relax. Let the Internet bring you the perfect holiday

Organise your Chaos

DMS: The magic line that will swim through the ocean of your data, to bring you the file you want

A Quantum Leap for Computing

A bucketful of water may have more memory than your PC. Quantum computing harnesses the forces of nature to bring you supernatural performance

Focus on Fine Prints

The trinity of features—quality, speed and finally price—decide the fate of 21 inkjet printers

Higher and Sharper

22 scanners visited us this month. Let's find out which was the best in terms of clarity and speed