

Enter the relevant opening amounts in the tab

click on 'Save'. GnuCash now offers to autosave over short durations, a feature that was missing earlier.

Once an Account is saved, GnuCash automatically opens it when you start the next time. By default, the details in

Uncheck 'Placeholder' for editing

Give each account a specific name the register are read-only. To open them for editing, Click on any of the accounts and click on Edit > Edit Account (or use the shortcut [Ctrl] + [E]) and uncheck the 'Placeholder' box close to the bottom of the window.

Every time you want to see the whole list of assets and liabilities according to the opening balance you have entered, click on the + sign on the left of each account title in the main GnuCash window.

Click '+' for additional subcategories

with the date. Choose the date of transaction from the drop-down calendar that appears when you click on the date.

Enter a transaction

Use the Account Register window to enter a transaction. In the main window of your saved account, double-click on the sub-account you want to enter a transaction into: for example, double-click on the 'Checking' account under the 'Asset' top-level account. The Account Register window will now display a row of options starting

Press [Tab] to move to the next tab. Fill in a number for the transaction (presumably, the first one so you could type [1]). Press [Tab] again. This moves you to the description tab

Date	Num	Description
05/04/2010		Opening Balance
05/03/2010	2	Groceries

Put a label to your transaction which is a slot for you to type in whatever head you wish to put the transaction under (e.g. 'Groceries').

Keep a date-wise record of all your transactions

GnuCash is an automatic double-entry system which means that each time you enter a transaction, you must specify another account from which the money comes or to which the money goes, depending on the kind of transaction. Under the 'Transfer' column, click on the drop-down menu and choose 'Expenses: Groceries'. Use the mouse to click or press the 'Tab' button twice and, under the 'Withdrawal' head, fill in the amount spent from your checking account on