TEST CENTRE RATINGS (All Scores out of 10)

Features.....7
Top of the line product - voltage and short circuit protection and modular design.

Performance.....8
Low operating temperature, Fan does not make much noise. Twelve cables should be enough.

Build quality.....8
Solid metal body, cable quality also very good.

Value for money.....7
Quality comes at a price and so does Corsair AX1200

Features.....7
Similar to AX1200 but the 24-pin connectors are not detachable like on the AX1200.

Performance.....7.5
Operating temperature are very low, Even on faster rotation, fan makes no noise

Build quality.....8
Black metal body is very strong, Cables are of good quality.

Value for money.....7.5
This is a product which justifies the pricing.

Features.....7.0
The mouse has 9 buttons out of which 7 are programmable. Hot-key performs triple-click action.

Performance.....5.5
Gaming performance is good, there is no lag. However, the side buttons are tough to use and the click wheel is a little loose.

Build quality.....6.0
Not very impressive. Sides have a sticky rubbery texture.

Value for money.....4.0
Overpriced. You get better ones with more features, for cheaper.

WE SAY

7.5

An 80plus Gold 1200W power supply is only for those who want to setup a 3 way SLI or Cross-fire. The AX1200 comes bundled with 16 SATA cables, 6 PCIe cables, 12 peripheral cables which is more than sufficient. For the price AX1200 is a good stable power supply. For those who constantly upgrade graphics it is a good investment.

6.0

Verbatim Rapier V1 is used for playing games and normal usage. In standard mode the side buttons can be used for web navigation. In gaming mode, it can emulate the entire keyboard. It is perfect for playing first person shooting games. It is highly overpriced considering the build quality and discomfort to the user. There are cheaper mice with more functionalities.
