

STEP 10 Playing Movies

Inserting movies into a slide is very similar to inserting audio. Right-click the inserted movie and choose 'Edit Movie Object'. Here, you find options to 'Rewind movie when done playing', 'Hide while not playing' and 'Zoom to full screen'.

Note that movies are never embedded, but always linked. Hence, while transferring the .ppt file onto a CD, you will have to copy the movie as well. Use the Pack and Go wizard found under File menu, to put all the linked files in one folder, which you can then transfer onto the CD.

STEP 11 Creating Action Buttons

So far we have seen that the movie or the audio file that we have inserted plays when clicked. You can create buttons to play, pause or stop the movie or audio, thus giving your presentations a professional touch. To create an action button, go to Slide Show > Insert Button.

Here, click on a button that you wish to insert. Now, click on the movie and switch to the Custom Animations task pane. You will see an entry to Play and Pause the movie. Right-click Play and choose Effect Options.

Now switch to the Timing tab and click the Triggers button. Click 'Start effect on the click of:' and click on the button you just created. Click OK to close the dialog box. Repeat the process for the Pause effect.

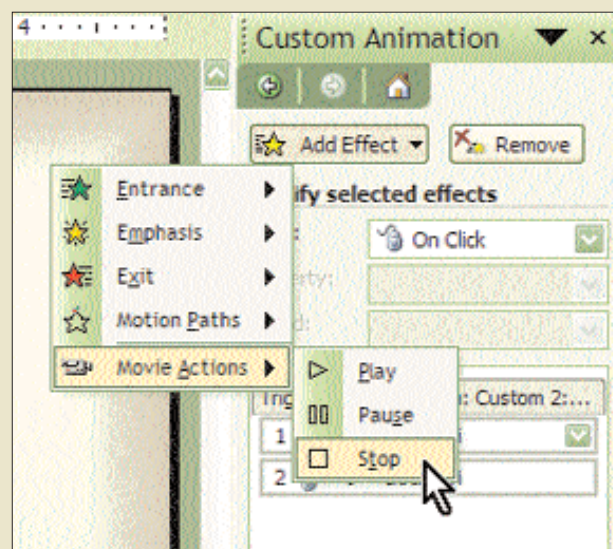

The Stop action needs to be added before you get the Stop button in place. Here's how that's done.

STEP 12 Add Stop

To create the stop button, you need to add this effect first to the movie. This is necessary because the Stop action is not added to the movie by default.

Click the movie and then click the Add Effect button. Go to Movie Actions and click Stop. You will see this entry in the Effects list-box.

Create an action button as explained above and assign it as the trigger to stop the movie. This process works for audio as well.

The last word

So that's the way you get your presentations to make their point with aplomb. Indeed, they are bound to go a long way in getting those much-sought smiles and nods of satisfaction at the end of the show! 🎬
