

Mad Scientists, The War On Spam, And More

1 Which world-renowned innovator is being honoured at The Economist's Third Annual Innovations Awards, 2004, held in San Francisco? This innovator authored a revolution while he was a student at the University of Helsinki.

- a. Alan Cox
- b. Linus Torvalds
- c. Richard Stallman
- d. Wichert Akkerman

2 Name the mysterious new chip designed by engineers from IBM, Sony and Toshiba, pitched as a "supercomputer on a chip". It will find a place in Sony's PlayStation 3.

3 Which electronics giant, to compete with Apple, has announced plans to add native MP3 support to its music players?

- a. Microsoft
- b. Sony
- c. Virgin
- d. Yahoo!

4 Which biggie is believed to be poaching developers from companies such as Sun and Microsoft in an effort to develop a browser to contend with IE?

- a. Google
- b. Amazon
- c. eBay
- d. Yahoo!

5 Which popular American ISP has decided to dump Microsoft's anti-spam tool, Sender ID, in favour of an open-source alternative?

- a. EarthLink
- b. MSN
- c. AOL
- d. Compuserve

6 Set in NYC in 1939, this film tells the story of giant flying robots, and a reporter who teams up with a pilot to thwart the plans of a mad scientist bent on destroying the world. Which film?

- a. Resident Evil: Apocalypse
- b. Cellular
- c. Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind
- d. Sky Captain and the World of Tomorrow

7 Xerox PARC is currently developing a flexible fabric-like material that can display digital text. What is this product better known as?

- a. OLED
- b. Plastic view
- c. Electronic paper
- d. ElectroCon

8 Name India's exclusive satellite for educational services, that was launched recently from Sriharikota.

- a. EDUSAT
- b. INSAT-2E
- c. IRS-1D
- d. Kalpana 1

9 Name this unlikely entrant into the Open Source arena, which recently released the source code for FlexWiki—software for creating Wikis.

- a. IBM
- b. Intel
- c. Sun
- d. Microsoft

10 German security company Securepoint has recently hired teenager Sven Jaschan, self-confessed creator of two destructive worms. Sven has been offered work as a trainee software developer working on security products, such as firewalls, despite an impending jail stint for creating one of the most destructive computer viruses to date. Name these worms.

- a. NetSky, Sasser
- b. Sasser, Melissa
- c. Melissa, "I Love You"
- d. Slammer, NetSky

Got an interesting question? Send it in with the answer to editor@thinkdigit.com

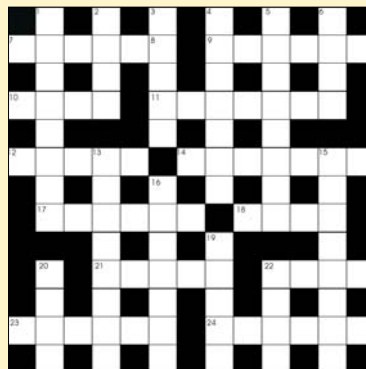

Crossword

Across

- 7. 'M' in CAM scatters the mod (6)
- 9. Visual handle in chat forum is an incarnation of a deity (6)
- 10. Earning before interest, and taxes (abbr) (4)
- 11. Questions and ----- (7)
- 12. An array in data processing upsets bleat (5)
- 14. Union territory 'A' in region code 'AN' in India (7)
- 17. Unit of temperature, ----- Fahrenheit (6)
- 18. Carrier Sense Multiple Access (abbr) (4)
- 21. Symbolized 'T' wrongs slate (5)
- 22. The four standard inks for printing (abbr) (4)
- 23. High tech boss or leader? (6)
- 24. Unit of absolute temperature invented by British physicist (6)

Down

- 1. Input device (8)
- 2. ---- in the arm for screen capture (4)
- 3. Concepts rearranges aides (5)
- 4. This company's logo is an ellipsis that mimics a planetary orbit (7)
- 5. Routers for entrances (8)
- 6. Short for upper case letters (4)
- 13. ----- International Swiss public digital company (8)
- 15. Opposite of synthesis (8)
- 16. A lasting connection between a user and a peer (7)
- 19. Modify programs illegally destroying shack (5)
- 20. Basic input/output system

(abbr) (4)

22. Computer Animation Movie Language (abbr) (4)

Compiled by Nitaa Jaggi

Send in your answers to the quiz to TQ@thinkdigit.com.

If you get all 10 answers right, you win a Canon PIXMA iP4000 printer!

L-I-N-D-O-W-S, the seven, Large letters that once topped Lindows' San Diego campus, are currently up for sale on eBay—for $641. This Linux start-up was recently sued by Microsoft for using a name that the latter believes infringes on the Windows trademark. The company has now been rechristened Linspire.

Did you know?