Mobile Etiquette

- ☑ Keep Quiet: Put your phone on Silent mode when in a meeting.
- ☑ Whisper: There's no need to shout into your phone when in public places, the other person will hear you fine if you use your normal voice. If not, cup your hand over the microphone, but never scream into your phone. It's rude!
- ☑ Xcuse me pleeeaze: When with others, always excuse yourself before answering your cell phone, and keep the conversations short.
- ☑ Escape: If you must take an important call when in a theatre, library, or place of worship, answer your phone quietly, ask the calling party to hold, and exit silently. Wait till you are outside before continuing the conversation.
- ☑ Are you listening to me?: When the reception is poor, no amount of shouting will help. In fact, words may sound more garbled to the caller due to your screaming.
- ☑ Don't disturb: Ignore incoming calls when in business meetings with clients or customers
- ☑ Shhh...!: Switch off your mobile when you enter a hospital.
- ☑ No noise: Mute or switch off your mobile phone when you are offering condolences at a funeral
- ☑ Danger... Ahead: Do not talk on your cell phone when driving. Even using a hands free headset is distracting, and could put you and the vehicles passengers at risk. It is also illegal in most Indian cities.
- ☑ BRB: If you are on a call when in a queue of any sort, ask the caller to hold or cut the call when your turn comes.

access, e-mail, and other interactive applications.
PIN (Personal Identification Number) A numeric code or password that may be required by a service provider in order to make outgoing calls or obtain access to certain applications and data. This code is always associated to a SIM card, not a phone and is designed to help guard against cellular fraud.

Predictive Text Input Software built into some cell phones and mobile devices that make typing words on a keypad easier. Instead of pressing each key one, two or three times, just to press it once and a built-in vocabulary will attempt to guess the word that you are spelling.
