

Enter

18
Adnan Sami on what tech means to him

18
Made in India: The Handheld Of Tomorrow

19
Internet Explorer vulnerabilities—yet again!

28
'Pharming' is, of course, next-gen Phishing. Here's how they do it

Digital Passion

29 The Attack Of The Mobile Gamers
The statistics are all telling us that mobile gaming will really take off very soon. We track the people who make it happen

34 Jewellery For Your Phone
You've got that coveted cell. Here's looking at the accessories that will add both functionality and flash value to it

38 Enter The Matrix

Imagine computing anywhere, any time, and getting a bill at the end of the month for how much you compute

46 Take a Crack

You could win if you can get Windows to display your company logo before the XP login screen

42 'How Do I Get There?'

Here's about India's own Mapquest-like site—and the brains behind it is just a 19-year-old

44 30 Days With...

Our reviewer gets his hands on the Nokia 9500 Communicator and comes away suitably impressed

47 Geek Dreams

Here's taking a look at the luscious Nokia 7710

Contents Magazine

Digital Tools

49 Blog On The Go

There happens to be only one Indian mobile blogging site. Can one make money off the idea?

66 Bring It Home

Ever wondered how DTH—Direct-to-home—works? Here's an introduction to the technology, and an explanation of how it works

68 Tech Nightmares

A look at how you get around the most common Microsoft PowerPoint blues

70 New & Notable

A look at the most eye-catching products of the month, including MSI's portable player, the Mac mini, and the iPod Shuffle

76 Keeping (AC)Count

It's tax season again! We test the top eight accounting/tax software available

83 Agent 001

Your beloved Agent 001 gets back to the basics—and hunts for keyboards and mice