

Forgot Your ATM card?

Use your mobile wallet at the ATM to validate account access. Step into the ATM centre, and point your mobile phone or PDA at the ATM. A message is then sent to the bank's central server to authenticate your mWallet application. Once your request has been authenticated, the transaction can be completed.

How It Works: Local And Remote Services

Your mobile wallet can be local (using the software installed on your mobile phone) or remote (the service is dependent on the payment provider). Remote wallets require an "always on" connection with the server, and user data needs to be centralised. The server can be operated by the service provider or financial institution.
