small and classic game every month just like you included Mario.

Via E-mail

Dear SMJ,
(Please give your full name next time)
If you inspect the CD/DVD closely, you will notice that there are full versions of some smaller and older games every month. In case you have any particular request, you could also log on to the Digit Forums (<http://thinkdigit.com/forum>) and register your requests there. As for the "Tip of the Week", it would be "Tip of the Month" and these elements are present across the magazine although not marked so. Let me also thank you for your support despite the higher cost in Nepal.

What About My Desktop?

I am a bit confused. what exactly do you want in your monthly contest "My Desktop"? Does this mean that one should create their own theme (I mean the entire coding)? Or is this only putting some unique wallpaper and a set of matching icons? Please tell me so that I can also take part in it. Also, how do I send this to you? By capturing a screenshot or by any other method?

Salil Natekar
Mumbai

Dear Salil,
We understand how hard it can be to actually create a desktop theme, and thus we do not have that as one of our requirements. At the same time, just anybody can get software such as WindowsBlinds, install a theme pack and then claim that their desktop should win. To prevent people from easily winning the prize, we would like to clearly state that preference is given to how much work we see being put in to a desktop. This means that although the winner may have a slightly uglier desktop than most others, he has put in a lot of work to get it to look that way, and not just installed a theme software and downloaded a pack!

As advice to those who wish to have a chance of winning the competition: Try and find a way to mix and match freely available themes and skins, or create your own (preferably). Modify even desktop software's themes to come up with something that looks completely unique!

Satisfied Digit Patron

Thanks for sending me the fresh CDs of Skoar! Fall 2003 after the initial CDs of the said magazine were not working. I mean, it is these little things that set Digit and its team apart from others in this materialised world! I hope it should keep you motivated as things like these are expected from a customer-friendly organisation like yours. I once again thank you for redressing my grievances at the earliest...

Registry Concerns

I am a Digit subscriber for the last one year. Each Digit issue improves my knowledge. The Q&A and Tips 'n Tricks are both useful and help me in solving problems while working. Even the Fast Track book is good and helps me improve my knowledge.

If u publish information about Registry under a Fast Track title, it would be very nice.

Dear Vikas

Thanks for your compliments. From time to time, we do deal with registry related topics but on the whole, we do not get into the details since not too many people are aware of the pitfalls of one wrong entry into the registry file. If, however, you have any particular query, you could direct it to us at sos@jasubhai.com and we will surely clear your doubts.

Corrigendum

In our September 2005 issue's 'Letter of the month' we had inadvertently stated that Mr. Subhendu Joardar is a senior citizen who earlier worked in the R&D department of a multinational. This is not correct, we hereby clarify. Any inconvenience caused to him is deeply regretted.

Internet Inaccessible

I am reader of Digit for a few years and I cannot stop myself from writing about it! I use Internet 'Plan A' at my office and residence and it's a very effective option. But, today, I got a letter from Mahanagar Telephone Nigam Ltd (MTNL). The gist of the letter is as follows:

1. They stopped giving new plans.
2. Charges are doubled on all plans.

This means that I now have to pay Rs 1,000 instead of Rs 500. So what option we have?

Dump MTNL and go to cable which could have viruses? Do firewall and what not to secure ourselves? I believe MTNL and BSNL both have similar plans and why they are changing all of a sudden is the question. The Govt. keeps on promoting Internet and in fact, all ISPs have unlimited plans since MTNL introduced their Internet plans. I wonder if ISPs like Roltanet and VSNL would have any future left if dial-up is expensive...

An article on this would be appreciated. It's said that one should never trust the government and this is why! People using these plans would have to look for alternates, which are perhaps neither so reliable nor cost effective.

MTNL wants to sell its broadband but can a user who wants to stay online for long afford Rs 1 per MB? 250 MB limits can get used in just a few days... the download of Open office takes up 60 MB and in 1 year, I had downloaded 3-4 versions of it.

I had heard enough about cable net that it is not safe as it can be hacked so as a business user, I would never like to opt for such a connection. Also, speed often tends to be slower in lower plans.

I would urge you to forward such article to concerned ministries so they come to know about the same. As a net user, I would like Unlimited Plans which do not have per MB rates. They do not make sense. 1 MB data is transferred in few minutes as various online applications check various things (Messengers, for example).

Communication from MTNL (letter by post) does not even mention an e-mail address where one can address these queries.
