

Mithun Kidambi

Collaborative software is something that allows several users to concurrently create and manage information on a Web site or network of pages. A wiki is a strong example of such software. Everyone associates the word ‘wiki’ with

To quote again from Wikipedia, “A single page in a wiki is referred to as a ‘wiki page’, while the entire body of pages, usually highly interconnected via hyperlinks, is ‘the wiki’; in effect, a very simple, easier-to-use database.”

