

Tech explained

We take the Nokia Lumia 1020 and explain the tech wizardry behind its 41MP PureView cam

Camera Support for Vine

Vine's 1.2 update is out for Android and adds the much needed front camera access. <http://dgit.in/14enRxL>

EcoXbt Waterproof Bluetooth Speaker

If you're throwing a pool party, having waterproof gadgets helps. For blasting your favourite tunes without fear of getting wet, check out the EcoXbt waterproof bluetooth speaker. This bad boy's designed to be used on water, yeah you read that right. The 9-inch wide, sub-1 kilo speaker floats on water, pairs with any smartphone or MP3 player via Bluetooth, and can also be used as a speakerphone to answer incoming calls.

It's battery powered, claiming to offer 10 hours of uninterrupted music playback off a single charge. Can't vouch for its audio quality, but the EcoXbt should keep the towels and umbrella dry on a rainy day.

All the gear you want to have... right now!

Tivoli Radio Silenz Headphones

This pair of headphones claims to be the first one in the world to offer ANC through wood housings instead of plastic. While we can't verify that claim, the Tivoli Radio Silenz does sport wood earcups that rotate up to 90 degrees and house 40mm drivers, and its design is quite compact. It additionally supports AAA battery (for wireless usage) and comes with an interesting button labeled "Defeat" on its controller. Press the button to kill the headphone's noise cancellation and fade down audio to engage in conversations or listening to announcements without removing the headphone (or switching its ANC off all the time). Pretty neat, eh?