

Web Watch

The web is changing as we speak. Read out to explore the latest developments triggered by other advancements in this space

App Watch

Get ready to rock these navigation apps. Also, don't miss the dedicated Dish TV app for Live TV on your mobile devices

A future-friendly present

The month sprang quite a few pleasant surprises. Read on...

Nexus 5 makes a brief appearance on the Google Play Store for ₹21,000

The Nexus 5 appeared briefly on the Google Play store in October. The listing seemed to be an error since the smartphone could not be purchased. The price for the 16GB variant of the Nexus 5 was listed at ₹21,456 ($349).

Codenamed Hammerhead, the smartphone was no longer visible on the Google Play store a few hours later. Its tagline "Capture the everyday and the epic in fresh new ways" leads us to believe that the camera will be one of the USPs of the Nexus 5.

Twitteratti hinted that the Nexus 5 would be unveiled on October 28. Leaks regarding the Nexus 5 have been making the rounds on the internet for some time now. It all started with the official unveiling of Android KitKat (Android 4.4) where the Nexus 5 was accidentally spotted in the video.

When the Nexus 4 was launched around this same time last year, it was available in two variants: 16GB priced at $349 and 8GB at $299 (₹18,382).

Ingram Micro to offer iPhone 5S, iPhone 5C in India from November

Information Technology distributor Ingram Micro has tied up with Apple to offer iPhone 5S and iPhone 5C at trade stores and retail outlets across India beginning Friday, November 1. Prices are as follow:

iPhone 5s

- 16GB – ₹53,500
- 32GB – ₹62,500
- 64GB – ₹71,500

iPhone 5c

- 16GB – ₹41,900
- 32GB – ₹53,500

The two smartphones will be available contract-free in India, but will also be sold by Airtel and Reliance Communications. Both the service providers have promised to offer attractive data and talk plans with the two devices.

BlackBerry slashes Z10, Q10 and Q5 prices for its enterprise customers; writes open letter Aiming to cash in on the festive season in the country, BlackBerry announced that it would be slashing prices of its new smartphones for existing BlackBerry Enterprise Service (BES) 10 customers.

iPhone 5s' many colours

Prices for enterprise customers:

- Q10 – ₹39,990
- Z10 – ₹29,000
- Q5 – ₹22,699

Prices for retail customers:

- Q10 – ₹44,900
- Z10 – ₹27,500
- Q5 – ₹24,500

BB writes an open letter

After being at the receiving end of bad press and many a speculation, BlackBerry has shot back at detractors with an open-letter to customers with which the smartphone manufacturer wants "to set the record straight". BlackBerry said that it has substantial cash on hand, and a debt-free balance sheet.

It's important to note that the company isn't shying away from or denying the existence of the current situation: "These are no doubt challenging times for us and we don't underestimate the situation or ignore the challenges. We are making the difficult changes necessary to strengthen BlackBerry." However, the confidence is more than apparent in the rest of the letter.

While the letter is aimed at almost all smartphone users,

BlackBerry has not forgotten that the enterprise audience is still critical to its survival. The letter says that in a BYOD scenario, BlackBerry's devices are much easier to manage and are more secure than Android and iOS. The company reveals that it saw an increase in BES 10 (BlackBerry Enterprise Service) subscribers from 19,000 to 25,000 in the previous quarter, and also speaks about being the best in class mobile social network. Well, Android and iOS users are still waiting to experience a taste of this, with the delay of the official BBM release for the two platforms.

We're not really sure if a letter would be enough to prevent customers from jumping ship to other platforms, but it's definitely heart-warming to see that BlackBerry is still putting on a brave and confident face. Read the open letter at <http://dgit.in/15PJRG7>

RCom launches 'Awesome America' roaming pack for postpaid GSM users

Reliance Communications (RCom) has introduced a new international roaming scheme for its postpaid GSM customers travelling to the U.S. called the "Awesome America" pack. It offers a discount of up to 98 percent on data usage and upto 76 per cent on voice calling on roaming. The pack is available for ₹849 with a validity of 30 days.

Looks similar to the Nexus 7