OS pretty well and we saw a few glitches here and there but the overall performance was quite good. Multitasking didn't show any issues as we were able to run about 8-10 apps at the same time without any crashes.

The Xolo Play is the only smartphone in the category that runs on an Nvidia Tegra 3 processor clocking at 1.5GHz with four cores. The interface on the smartphone is really smooth and so is the touchscreen. Navigating apps, playing games, browsing the Internet, the interaction with interface on the display was great. Thankfully it has 4.7 inch display which didn't exactly feel too big to use with one hand. Gaming on the smartphone was truly a pleasure as all the high end games like Asphalt 8, FIFA 14 and Dead Trigger 2 ran smooth as butter.

The Karbons Titanium S5 Plus gets the Best Buy award as it offers an overall nice feature set at a very low cost.
