

Letting bugs bite for science

A woman let 200,000 bed bugs bite her to test for a new pheromone. Read more : <http://dgit.in/1PQCva2>

Reduced attention spans?

Microsoft conducted research that seems to indicate that prolonged Internet usage reduces attention spans. <http://dgit.in/1LOWZVN>

LETTER OF THE MONTH

✉ As usual, like many others I too am a reader of your magazine. Before I begin to criticise you, I just want to share a small story about how I came across Digit and purchased it.

I come from a lower middle class family, who doesn't have the luxury of spending a lot of money. I was at this book shop and these two words happen to catch my eye "Tips and Tricks" and they got my motor running. I asked the owner of the shop to hand over the magazine to me and it was the "The Last Issue?". On surfing through the content, I was blown away. It was like a saint giving me a boon and the wait was over. However, when I checked the price of the mag, it said ₹250 and I was stumped. I had no money being financially weak and knew that no one at home would give me this amount.

But I had made up my mind that I would buy it, so I requested the shopkeeper not to sell the magazine and said that I'd purchase it within a few days. However, he asked for a guarantee. I had around ₹30-33 in my pocket. I gave it to him and said that I'd give him more money the next day and pleaded not to sell it. He somehow took pity on me, looking at my fragile face and agreed. This continued for 10 days. Everyday, I'd give him ₹10-20 and finally got it.

After reading it, I felt like I got my money's worth. Man, the content including the DVDs and FastTracks that you and your team put into it was mind blowing.

Now for some criticism...

Your Appsutra issue was disappointing and I felt as if I spent 200 bucks for nothing but reviews of gadgets and ads. It seems like you guys are running out of topics.

I didn't find the 'Fast Track to Raspberry Pi' helpful either. Only the little magazine about colleges was good. The game poster was horrifying and scary. Try something new like a superhero theme, Marvel Cinematic Universe theme or fantasy related theme since these things are trending these days. Instead of focussing so much on gadget reviews, I suggest focussing on skill development topics.

The work you guys do is commendable. I know you work hard, but next time make sure your efforts don't go in vain.

Digit has really helped me grow as a tech enthusiast and win the computer prize examinations held in my school thrice. Also, now I'm vice president of my school's computing society.

I could have mailed you but I can't even afford an internet connection. I'm messaging you from my friend's phone.

– Sagar Kapoor

📌 Your story is truly inspiring Sagar. We've sent you something special in the mail (besides a Digit T-Shirt of course). We're sure you'll like them both.

– Robert

relativity. In my defence for choosing her over you, Digit is.. umm.. let's just say I'm only 17 (birthday month!).

But you, Digit are my first love and I'll love you to infinity and beyond. By the way, have you done something to your pages? They feel lovely. XOXOXOXO

– Shubham S. Kumar

📌 Oh get a room you two!

– Agent 001

✉ Hello Team Digit,

I'm a gamer and new Digit reader (just 2 months old) from Chandigarh and I'm already a huge fan of yours. First of all, I'd like to say that I really liked your April edition, but that's the past. The present, i.e. the May edition is even more awesome, especially SKOAR! I keep reading the reviews.

Praises:

1. SKOAR!, THE best mini mag I've ever read: Games are my passion and I'm familiar with all the games on Play Store, however, this month's SKOAR!

acquainted me with some games I didn't know about.

2. Blippar: It's the coolest thing I've ever seen. Just one equation:

Weird + Funny = Awesome

3. $E=mc^2$: Yes, truly it's the world's most famous equation, but the history behind is far more interesting.
4. Digit: The article on budget tech was really great and the title is really justified. I have literally no words to express.

Brickbats:

1. Steam games: The screenshots of Survivium in SKOAR! were really good and I wanted to install it, but when I learnt that it was a Steam game, I was disappointed as I had no internet.
2. Bluestacks was also an online installer.

Suggestions:

1. I wouldn't tell you to stop providing Steam games, as Steam is the world's best game provider.
2. If you enabled the cash on delivery option for subscription, then you'd get yourself a new subscriber.

I have a technical issue and it would be great if you could solve it. When I try to install a new app on my Android phone from Play Store (about 24 MB), it gives me an error saying "Insufficient space on your device", in spite of having 5.4 GB of free space on the SD card and 1.23 GB of free space in internal storage. Please help solve this problem. I have cleared my Play Store cache and data and have reinstalled Google Play services by uninstalling the updates. However, this has made no difference.

It would be appreciated if you could review WWE 2K15 PC version in the next issue as I'm looking forward to buying this game.

– Himanshu Kumar

📌 Thanks for all the feedback Himanshu. Detailed letters like this one help us improve by focusing on specific areas. Always nice to know what we're doing well and what we need to improve. As for your Android problem, please send us screenshots.

– Siddharth