Microsoft-Activision takeover still a no go

The Microsoft-Activision takeover saga is not going to end anytime soon. After interventions in the proceedings of the takeover by EU authorities, it seemed like we would soon see the deal go through. But, as things stand at the time of writing, there is no going ahead for it.

Bandai Namco replaces SEGA at the arcade spot

The fabled arcade spot in Akihabara, Japan, which has been controlled by SEGA for the longest time, is now being taken over by Bandai Namco. This move comes after the sale of SEGA's arcade division to Gigo in 2020 had left the space empty.

Sony to restocks PS5 twice a month

February is turned out to be a pretty good year for gamers looking to buy the Sony PlayStation 5. The new console was up for two rounds of pre-booking.

According to a press release by Sony, the PS5 was up for pre-booking from February 22, 12 PM onwards, for the second time in February.

Despite the restocking, it doesn't look like the stock shortage will go away anytime soon. And the price of PS5 has also been changed after the November hike. The base model of PS5 is available now for ₹54,990. Sony isn't the only company that is facing a shortage of products. Microsoft has also been struggling to keep up with demand. On the PC gaming front, AMD and Nvidia are also struggling to keep pace with the demand for their new GPUs. Needless to say, while this might be a great time for gaming in terms of hardware, getting your hands on said hardware is another matter entirely.

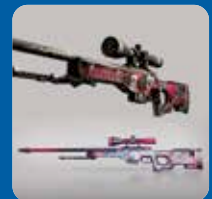

Stolen artwork on a skin, again!

If you have played Counter-Strike: Global Offensive and have indulged in the skins side of things in the game, then you must know what transpired when the M4A4 Howl was added to the game. For those who don't know, the artwork on the skin was found to be stolen, and Valve had to change the artwork on that skin, and the company also took down all the skins submitted by the creator.

Since then, there have been several instances of stolen artworks being featured on CS:GO skins. And, with the release of the latest Revolution Weapons case in the game, the world of CS:GO skins went into turmoil. It was found that the artwork on the skin - AWP Doodle Lore - was stolen. This time, Valve was quick on their feet, and within days of the discovery, they replaced the skin with the AWP Duality. All the instances of the Doodle Lore have been taken out of the game now, and replaced with the AWP Duality.

Movie time!
