

BADMO5. Both teams gave each other a tough fight but BADMO5 dominated the game and won the first prize. The finals were live-streamed on YouTube. Both online and offline audiences were very thrilled to see both teams perform with so much Passion. Volunteers and mentors managed the event very well. We will organise more such events in the near future. It's amazing to see the rise in popularity of eSports over the past few years. We've come a long way to make sure passionate gamers at the college level. In our college, there was a group of fervent gamers who dreamed of starting an online gaming club. They pitched their idea towards the college administration in person. To their surprise, the administration helped them out and gave them the tools they needed to start the club. Additionally, the group made contact with other students who shared their enthusiasm for gaming and extended an invitation to join the club. The team put in a lot of effort over the following few weeks to set up the club's foundation. And we also thank SKOAR who give us and our players a platform to compete with different universities on the big stage. We started our club with a few gamers and some members but now our community is getting bigger. Now we are able to connect more gamers from our college who have outstanding skills and are passionate about gaming. They just need a platform to show their skills and SKOAR! is helping to achieve this.

Ambassadors Profile

Hello readers! My name is RIYA JAIN, and I am currently pursuing Btech & Mtech in Defence Technology from Amity University. Apart from my academic pursuits, I am passionate about gaming. What enchants me the most about gaming is its unparalleled ability to transport players into a world of virtual reality providing an immersive experience that surpasses all other forms of entertainment.

My go-to game is Beat Saber. The game requires players to precisely slice through blocks with virtual laser swords in synchronisation with music beats, creating an exceptionally stimulating and captivating experience. Beat Saber is my preferred choice when it comes to seeking respite from the mundane daily life routine. I find myself completely absorbed in the game, using physical and mental agility to achieve mastery over every move, thus making every game a thrilling and exhilarating experience.

In conclusion, gaming, and particularly Beat Saber, has interestingly become a part of my life, and I am excited to continue exploring the limitless potential of this virtual world moreover, the Integration of Gaming and warfare is the pivot point that drives me to work forward.
