

Valve adds new map(s) to CS2

Months after the launch of the invite-only beta of the upcoming game, Counter-Strike 2, Valve has added a new map to the game, de_mirage, followed by de_Nuke, replacing the outgoing de_dust2. Valve had announced Counter-Strike 2 to be the replacement game for Counter-Strike: Global Offensive earlier this year. Since then, players have been waiting for the developer to add more content to the game, and send out more invites before the game officially launches in Summer 2023.

<https://bit.ly/CS2Mir>

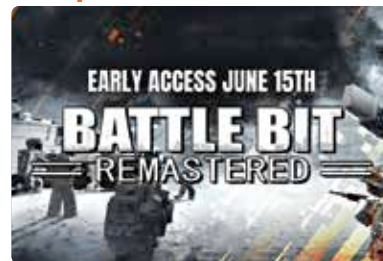

Final Fantasy XVI coming to PC

Much to the joy of PC gamers across the globe, the producer of Final Fantasy franchise have announced that Final Fantasy XVI will be coming to PC, and the game is under development. This news comes from Naoki "Yoshi-P" Yoshida, the game's producer. However, a final release date is not in sight. But given the fact that unlike earlier, there are talks doing rounds with official statements being made about the release. Things look more promising than ever!

<https://bit.ly/FFXVIPc>

BattleBit Remastered conquers Steam

A newly launched FPS game, BattleBit Remastered, has climbed to the top of Steam's sales charts. Why, you ask? Well, the game has a lot to offer for the price the players are paying for - as per a whole lot of players who have already spent hours in the game. The game has no microtransactions yet and offers loads of weapon customisations for players to fiddle around with. Be it on Twitch or Twitter, people have been raving about the launch of this supposed "genre-defining" title!

<https://bit.ly/BBRem>

Parental controls added to BGMI

PUBG Mobile came back to India as the Battlegrounds Mobile India (BGMI). It was banned earlier in 2022 because of different reasons. Majorly because parents were concerned that the children were hooked on the game for hours, which was impacting their studies and other outdoor activities.

So, now Krafton has introduced a new feature for BGMI where parents have some control over what their children are playing, how long they are playing and different reasons. Basically parental control has been introduced. Some of the key features of this include - whenever a minor is about to start playing BGMI, they will have to get the SMA verification done by sending an OTP every time on the registered number of the parent, and or minors, the game is limited to 3 hours only.

<https://bit.ly/BGMIPCon>

Indian NGO seeks to ban Undawn

An Indian NGO named Prahar has urged the Indian government to ban the Chinese giant Tencent's open-world survival role playing game called Undawn.

If Indian authorities agree to Prahar's allegations, then Undawn could be a new addition to the long list of banned Chinese apps in India. But, let's not rush to any conclusion and see for ourselves why Prahar thinks Undawn must be banned.

Undawn was launched on June 15, 2023, which happens to be the same day when the India-China border clash happened at the Galwan valley. About 20 Indian soldiers were reportedly killed in this skirmish. Prahar finds it very disturbing that Tencent chose June 15 as the date for the release of Undawn.

<https://bit.ly/UndawnBan>

