

PlayStation players, Rejoice!

Microsoft and Sony have signed a binding agreement to retain Call of Duty games on PlayStation for 10 years. This comes days after a US court permits Microsoft to acquire Activision. The court denied America's Federal Trade Commission's plea to block the Microsoft-Activision deal. Activision, Blizzard, and King games will make their way to the Xbox Game Pass library. In its official blog post announcing the acquisition deal, Microsoft said this would include Call of Duty, Diablo and Overwatch. Some leaked documents from the UK's CMA trial reveal a new CoD title could make its way to Game Pass in 2025. The company assures the CoD would be available on PlayStation the same day that it launches on Xbox.

<https://bit.ly/3KmeC9R>

Amazing free games PlayStation Plus members will get in August 2023

Sony Interactive Entertainment has announced the lineup of games for PlayStation Plus members in August 2023. The company has revealed only three titles yet but more will be revealed once the July Game Catalogue ends. The July Game Catalog also featured an impressive selection of titles available exclusively to Extra and Premium members. Subscribers will be able to download and enjoy the following games from August 1 to September 4 - PGA Tour 2K23 (PS5, PS4), Dreams (PS4), and Death's Door (PS5, PS4).

<https://bit.ly/3KmWVHo>

Google Play Games for PC Available in India

Google Play Games Beta for PC has expanded to new markets including India and by installing it, you will be able to play Android games on PC. Also, since it is native, it consumes relatively fewer resources compared to something like a Bluestack. Here are some of its benefits:

- * Google Play Games will offer a simple installation and will be easy to use.
- * Since it supports games officially, those games should run smoothly and run across devices seamlessly. You'd only need the Google Play Games for PC on all those devices signed in to the same Google account.
- * It should also efficiently use resources compared to Bluestacks.
- * However, Bluestacks could support a larger library of games, even if it's unofficially.
- * Bluestacks support the gamepad controller too whereas Google Play Games bring support for keyboards and mice only. <https://bit.ly/3OCbj12>

FAU-G Domination to deploy in the Indian gaming battlefield soon

Last year, FAU-G was launched in India as a competition of battleground games. However, the game couldn't grow on Indian gamers. Unrelenting, however, the makers of Fearless and United Guards aka FAU-G, nCORE and Dot9 have confirmed the combat game on the occasion of Kargil Vijay Diwas. On this day (July 26), India won the Kargil War in 1999 with Pakistan. Although, the launch date of FAU-G Domination was not announced by the makers. Let's see what the game brings for us this time. India's FAU-G which was based on the Galwan Valley tension between India and China, created quite the stir in India. And now, we have its sequel. Its sequel could also work around a patriotic theme. Just like FAU-G's theme was around Galwan Valley, we are hoping to see something similar. nCore Games announced FAU-G Domination with a 'Coming Soon' poster on Twitter. They further informed us that we can expect new characters, guns, and exciting game modes/tournaments. <https://bit.ly/3q9JiEu>

