

Headphones under ₹1,000

Affordable beats

Having a good pair of earbuds is extremely vital today be it for listening to music, making calls, watching movies or TV shows, and more. The audio market is brimming with options, however, not all of these are pocket-friendly. The sub-1K price segment does have some excellent, value for money audio options but it is hard to find them amidst the sea of low-quality earphones that are usually found in this price bracket. This is where we come in. Good earbuds under 1K should have decent audio quality, an inbuilt microphone, and playback controls. If the sound quality is far better than what's expected in this price range, we are alright with sacrificing the playback controls and microphone too. There are many earbuds under 1,000 in India that provide a decent blend of features and performance.

1MORE Piston Fit

The 1MORE Piston Fit is a wired earphone housing a 10mm dynamic dual-layer composite driver made of aerospace-grade titanium. The earphone is available in four colours and looks extremely premium for the price. The earphone delivers balanced yet vibrant sound with punchy lows, detailed mids and clear highs. The earbuds are angled to help them fit in the ears easily. You also get three sizes of silicone ear tips. The earphone features an inbuilt microphone and a multifunction button for controlling music playback and calls. There's no official water resistance so be careful about that. You also get an L-shaped 3.5mm audio connector which allows you to hold your phone comfortably when using them.

Sony MDR-ZX110A

Housing a 30mm dynamic driver, the Sony MDR-ZX110A is a wired on-ear headphone with energetic and bass-biased sound. So, for users who like headphones with a bass-heavy sound, this is a great wired option for under Rs 1,000.

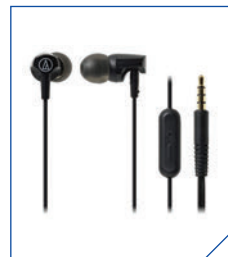

The headphones are well-designed and lightweight, so you can easily carry them around when you're out and about. They can also be folded for enhanced portability. The closed-back design ensures decent isolation and minimal sound leakage. The earpads are cushioned as well. However, the earphones, unfortunately, don't come with an inbuilt microphone but the build and sound quality compensates for that loss.

boAt Bassheads 900

If you're looking for everything the Sony MDR-ZX110A offers plus an inbuilt microphone and multifunction button, the boAt Bassheads 900 is your best option under Rs 1,000. While the sound quality may not be quite as refined as the Sony MDR-ZX110A, you get decent build quality, a pretty good microphone and music playback controls with this one. The headphones house 40mm drivers that provide deep bass response which bass lovers will enjoy. The headphones also can be folded and come with a tangle-resistant cable with a 3.5mm audio jack. Additionally, these cans also are pretty lightweight at only 150g and are comfortable to wear, thanks to the ear cups have soft cushioning as well for added comfort.

Audio Technica ATH-CLR100iS SonicFuel

The sub-1K price segment is often littered with bass-biased earphones and headphones, however, the Audio Technica ATH-CLR100iS doesn't go down the same path and offers balanced sound at this competitive price. The 8.5mm driver produces crystal clear highs and mids with balanced bass response. You also get inbuilt controls for handsfree calling and music playback. There's also an inbuilt microphone that is pretty decent for calls. The design is simple and the earbuds are lightweight. You get three sizes of silicone ear tips to choose from. If close-to-neutral sound without breaking the bank, these earbuds are probably your best bet under Rs 1,000. The only con is that the build isn't as premium as the 1MORE Piston Fit so you will need to choose between flat sound and premium build. d
