Samsung Galaxy S25 Ultra: Expected launched date

After the iPhone 16 launch, all attention has now shifted to the Android flashups. People are waiting to see how they will stand against it. The rumours and leaks for the Samsung Galaxy S25 Ultra have already started doing rounds, along with its other brother Galaxy S25 and Galaxy S25+. The device is expected to launch next year in January, keeping in mind Samsung's timeline. Ahead of that, let's take a look at all that we know about the upcoming Galaxy S25 Ultra specs. So the Samsung Galaxy S25 Ultra will debut with Android 15-based One UI 7. So you will get more AI features too, this includes v2 of Google's Gemini Nano. This is a mobile-optimised language model that enhances AI-driven functions like Circle to Search, Photo Assist, and Live Translate. Further, rumours suggest that satellite connectivity could finally arrive on the S25 Ultra. This will allow emergency texts via "satellite mode" in Samsung's messaging apps. <https://bit.ly/3XRB6XB>
