

been exclusively designed for the Android interface. It also uses the technology at its disposal to engage autistic children and develop important skills. The app is far more intricate than Autista providing a host of features including social networking integration and log tracking for all elements of progress. The app is best suited for institutions due to its hefty price tag and can be used in classrooms where special needs are a priority.

Indian Story Teller

Price: Free

OS: Android

Indian Story Teller may not be the most sleekest and modern looking app available but it does a solid job of introducing kids to Indian stories. Not only does the app use hand-drawn looking illustrations to engage the kids in classic folk tales it is also multi-lingual in many Indian languages. The app is a great way for parents to sit with their child and experience the stories from the Panchatantra in a fun and intimate way.

Apps by LogTera

Price: ₹ 60 and above

OS: iOS

LogTera is an enterprising e-learning start-up based out of Pune which has made impressive moves in the education market. The company offers a variety of educational apps for children of all ages in neat little market segments and school grades. The apps offered use colorful and cute illustrations and animations to teach school curriculum subjects like Math, General Knowledge and Geography from classes KG to 5th grade. They were declared as the winners of the Best Educational Apps of 2014 by the Scientific Objective Fair by Balefire Labs.

TOP 10 EDUCATIONAL WEBSITES FOR FREE

Looking beyond apps and devices we bring to you our top ten list of websites for children of all ages. Parents can feel confident letting their kids loose on this domains knowing that not only will they find age-appropriate content