

only has a vast assortment of educational and entertainment apps suitable for children but also explains the structured environments necessary for children to make the most of them. We also throw in a thorough catalogue of educational hardware tech and toys that will help maximise a child's growth and development. We wrap things up with a parental toolkit which will allow you to manage your kids usage and keep a watchful eye on them. In short, we give you all the knowledge you need to make the right decision for your child as they grow up. We hope this Fast Track helps you secure your child's technological upbringing during these rapidly changing times.

As always, we welcome your feedback and questions at: editor@digit.in.

Now stop kidding around and go read! 