

a person's behaviour. The next time you are talking to a friend (who talks a lot), give a slight nod every time he/she says an 's' sound. Then notice the frequency with which those sounds occur, it should rise. Whatever you do, your work definitely interacts with people in some way (else no one would be paying you for it) and you can use UX design to make it better, even if your work is writing fiction! 📖