

Artificial Intelligence

the nearby restaurants and enabling us to chat with whoever is online. However, a lot of AI is yet to be discovered for use in our daily lives. Robots who cook, talk and date are all round the corner. User Experience designers face the challenge of humanising experiences for these Roombas of the world.

There would always be a debate around the impact of AI on humanity, but we as UX designers need to be armed with solutions to this puzzle.

Call center IVRs will no longer be automated messages asking to press buttons in a monotonous tone. There would be unique individuals taking

Experience all around