

Pebble's range of smartwatches

build 'sensors and smart straps that connect directly to the watch'.

In terms of software, both offer excellent fitness tracking apps and also support music and media playback via third-party software. Thanks to its widespread popularity, the Pebble app store now features around 6,500 apps and watch faces for a truly individual experience. The latest iteration of Pebble Time introduces a unique timeline interface in which users can scroll through past and future notifications, allowing them to maintain a productive schedule while staying informed of actions and events they may have to encounter during a hectic work day.

Both Pebble watches have an estimated battery life of up to seven days (thanks to the extremely power-efficient e-paper display) and can be
