

charged using the included USB cable. Each of them also come in more expensive Steel variants, which feature an all-steel chassis and are available in brushed stainless and matte black.

Samsung Galaxy Gear series

Samsung's Gear line of smartwatches is are known for their excellent build quality and focus on functionality. The original Galaxy Gear boasted top of the line specs and was released alongside Samsung's flagship device of that time, the Galaxy Note 3. The smartwatch a relatively discrete design which was in stark contrast to its square design aesthetic. It featured a petite 1.6-inch AMOLED display with a pixel density of ~277 ppi.