

and cybernetic extensions. To make it clear to you, let's consider a scenario of two different pioneers in these two different spheres.

Neil Harbisson is popularly known as the first person to use a wearable device to overcome chromatopsia, a condition that renders people color-blind. According to him, cyborgism is just an art. He learnt that light and sound have one thing in common i.e. frequency. This was his inspiration