

players when it comes to live action VR content. The company has partnered with giants like Google for the content creation.

They also have an advanced proprietary camera called “Neo.” The projects of Jaunt is set to make watching 3D movies feel like having a boiled yet bland potato for dinner when you have the option of a well-made marinated turkey. For it’s the cinematic content of the highest quality that the projects of Jaunt always aim for.

In fact, the company even has a content creation studio- goes by the name of Jaunt Studios, duh. And it’s headed by a shaman who can see into the future of cinema. Not really, it’s headed by a group of ex- Lucas film executives. Same thing? Maybe.

6. WEVR

WEVR used to be called ‘WemoLab.’ Based in Los Angeles, the company is one of the most promising in creating VR experiences. And in a world

