

long-for they are making VR games that are only getting better and better. The World War Toons- the world's very first first person shooter game built for VR also came out of their doors.

To bring outstanding gaming experiences to the VR platform, the company uses talents from both the animation and game development disciplines- for instance, developers who worked on the Call Of Duty Series and also the presence of such a person as Nik Ranieri as the animation direction. Ranieri has worked for many of Disney's popular films including Aladdin and Hercules.

14. WorldViz

The Santa Barbara-based WorldViz has for its primary target audience the enterprise consumers. The company produces simulation softwares including those for VR training. They have also created the Vizard VR Toolkit-an engine that enables creation of VR content. Another of their prominent products is Vizmove- a “complete VR system” using which one can both create and experience VR content inside a tracked environment.