

that most of these screens cannot be read without an external light source, just as with regular novels and newspapers. This provides better viewing angles and less glare, helping you achieve that perfect reading experience.

Your perfect display highly depends on your requirements and budget (the biggest factor of them all). Take a while, analyse the specs of your preferred model and take a well-informed decision as to whether you genuinely need to shell out an extra 10k for that new 4K HD display that probably won't end up meeting your expectations. Happy shopping!.
