

highlighted in your followers' dashboards. The price is currently $2 but was $1 upon launch. If you have active Tumblr followers and content you'd like to get additional exposure for, this can be an interesting way to do it.

Tumblr Spotlight for Brands

The pricing for this product isn't publicly disclosed, but the idea here is a brand can sponsor a spotlighted topic page like fashion or sports and have their ads shown to anyone who visits that page. Many Tumblr users view content this way so it can be a way for brands looking for high-volume exposure on social sites to get access to large numbers of visitors.

Tumblr Radar

Tumblr Radar allows brands to buy display units in the right rail of users' dashboards. Similar to Facebook ads promoting Facebook pages, these ad units allow users to like, follow, and reblog brands' content.

Tumblr Pinned Posts

Pinned posts are the newest paid advertising product from Tumblr, announced in late June. Similar to Tumblr highlighted posts, with pinned posts for $5, users can pin posts to the top of followers' dashboards. Highlighting the post simply puts a marker next to it in followers' dashboards, where as pinning the post means that it hovers at the top of your followers' dashboards for 24 hours.

