

Pro(s):

Good tool for a novice to get a hang of SMM

Con(s):

Lack of in-depth analysis

8. Addictomatic

Addictomatic is pretty much similar to Twazzup, in that you can get a good overall picture about how one particular brand is performing on social media. However, the difference is that with Addictomatic, it's not just Twitter that is looked into. It covers multiple platforms like Youtube, Twitter, BingNews, Wordpress, Delicious and more. The tool is especially useful for keeping track of brand reputation and also new developments in the relevant industry.

Pro(s):

It provides you with relevant info about both brand performance and relevant news

Con(s):

Limited possibilities for broadening the scrawling

9. HowSociable

One of the major hurdles faced by Social Media Managers is determining which Social media platform to focus more on compared to others. In the absence of effective measuring tools, you could end up putting more money on platforms that don't really require all that extra monetary fuel and spend less on those platforms which actually could use a cash boost.