

saging apps do not offer the option of traditional banner ads so marketers need to come up with interesting alternatives that can engage consumers. In today's world, the marketing campaign needs to be engaging and non-intrusive so consumers feel they are not being spammed or targeted by ads. No consumer wants to see highlighted banner ads on his chat screen.

Gone are the days when a messaging app was meant simply for communicating with friends or loved ones. The idea behind the messaging apps of the future is to provide an entire ecosystem of services to a consumer so he or she doesn't end up downloading tons of different apps but can complete all his activities right from messaging, bill payments, orders for meals, calling contacts, purchasing products via ecommerce, making mobile payments, checking in feature for commercial flights, or even booking tickets right from the insides of one simple messaging app. 