

THE TOOLS OF THE TRADE

Building your own website might seem like a daunting task but if you know the following, then your work just got a lot easier.

For those new to web development, the idea of creating your own web page can be daunting. But if you break down your requirements to the bare minimum, it's easy to see that to create a bare bones static webpage with minimum styling, all you need to know