

Even though Skype encrypts your communication, it still stores the data and logs on their servers making you and your data vulnerable be used with TOR. You can download it's official client called PyBitmessage with a built in video conferencing tool.

Facetime, the competitor by Apple provides end to end encryption, but the company is known to regularly comply to court orders and government agencies.

Also, there are a number of paid software out there like OmniJoin and BlueJeans that provide safe and secure cloud based video service. d