

Cyber security is important aspect of a connected home sufficient checks to reduce mistakes or human errors. Let's have a look at some advantages.

Automated home entry

With your home entry automated, you can just walk into your house when you are near the door. The door lock system will detect your presence and unlock the door for you. You might think - how will it know that you have arrived? It can either detect presence of your phone or check your face via a camera near a door.

If you're expecting a relative or a friend at your house while you are at work, you can just manually unlock your door from your office when your relative or arrives.

Automatic HVAC systems

HVAC stands for Heating, Ventilation and Air Conditioning. An automated home will detect when you approach your home by continuously checking your location via your smartphone.
