

Belkin WeMo Insight switch

Control On/Off Switch, which would cost you around ₹2500, is compatible with Z-Wave and ZigBee hubs, like SmartThings. There's also a Bluetooth version of the same, for around ₹3500. However, you would want to keep in mind that Bluetooth would severely limit your range and not allow you to control the switch from outside your home.

Now, if we're going to talk about smart plugs, one of the most popular ones in the market is Belkin's WeMo switch. It retails for around ₹2000 in the Indian market, and is one of the most versatile devices for a beginner to automated lighting to get started with. You can plug in lamps, outdoor string LED lighting or whatever you please, and control these remotely, or you can use the normal outlet switch to toggle the device on or off. Like other WeMo devices, the switch is compatible
