

- Sharing success stories of professionals
- Producing motivational short videos
- Motivational speech (But try to avoid wearing plaids!)

Health and wellness

There is no doubt that good health is the most important asset of all. And if you can help others attain that, it's one of the best things that you can do. Over a YouTube channel, you can do this by providing different types of information:

- Tips for better general health
- Tips specifically for body building
- Diet tips for optimal nutrition and weight

Go, light a fire for someone!

Good number of takers for good health

The art of business

Business and Marketing

Often, the reason for the failure of a good product can be lame marketing and vice versa. It's when you marry the principle of building a good product with savvy marketing then you get a good solution. If you have the right ideas and the zest, many people could benefit from your knowledge. Here are some arenas you can consider:

- Tips for better managing an office
- Tips for using different marketing avenues effectively
- Tips for better investment as a business firm

Travel

If you are someone who travels frequently, you can consider filming your rides and the edited videos could be up there on your channel, along with