

iJustine

Justine Ezarik's brand of weirdness has earned her a dedicated fan following on YouTube. With over 1,700 videos and five YouTube channels, she is nothing short of a YouTube phenomenon. Her weirdness is in the unexpected stunts like randomly dancing in Apple stores. Her usual repertoire includes a whole lot of activities from video blogging about her own life to product reviews. Her popularity had even helped her land a couple of acting parts!

Weird can work!

Talking Animals

This channel shows us what pets are really thinking. Or so they say.

Annoying Orange

Annoying Orange showcases talking fruits and vegetables. The Orange – the main character usually roams around the kitchen looking for other fruits and veggies to pester. And yes, it's a massive hit. The characters have already been turned into toys and video game characters.

Improv Everywhere

The idea here is simple – have a bunch of ordinary people go into popular public spaces and do weird things such as standing still for five minutes at the Grand Central Station in America. Part performance art, part gag, all wonderfully weird.

Hydraulic press

Everything from truck toys to books and diamonds get crushed with a hydraulic press. That's it. And boy, did it make the creator an overnight sensation! Told you, weird works!

Hoping for a great channel from your end, here we end this chapter. d
