

PICKING THE RIGHT GEAR

If you've decided on what you're going to produce, you'll want to get gear to make it happen

To be able to produce any content, you'll need some basic gear to start off with. If you're looking to produce audio only content, you'll need some basics such as a microphone and a rig to process the audio and upload it. To be able to do video, you can choose between using motion graphics or shooting in real life. While you can get away with using a decent rig for motion graphics, you'll need to invest in a good camera to start shooting good, clear content. We have categorized