

The list of videos that you can see in front of you and the accompanying buttons let you perform a lot of actions. For instance, select one or more videos on the list and click on the 'Actions' drop down to take common actions on all of them at the same time, like Monetise, set the privacy, license and delete. Clicking on 'Add Actions' shows a list of action that you can add to that drop down like Ad breaks, Embedding, Syndication and more.

For each video there is an Edit button beside the thumbnail and a drop down that goes with it. Like other drop downs in the Creator Studio, this one also lists the tabs that you will get in the Video editing screen that you will reach once you click the Edit button. Along with that you have two additional options that let you download the video in MP4 format and Promote it as a dedicated ad campaign. Once you click the Edit button, you reach the video edit screen that will appear confusing to begin with. Pay attention to this part as each of these is very significant to make or break your video's popularity.

Info & Settings

You start off with the Info & Settings section that has a main section and four subsections.

Thumbnail

The main section lets you chose the thumbnail out of YouTube's suggestions or upload a custom thumbnail. Be careful about the thumbnail you chose - it should be the most interesting frame of your video without giving away any suspense that might make the viewer open the video. A lot of popular Youtubers chose to put additional text on the Thumbnail that behaves in the same way that a leader or a Snippet works for an article. On the other hand, do not put a misleading thumbnail as it will get you views in the short run but will damage your reputation and chances of getting subscribers in the long run.
