

INTRODUCTION

Making videos for YouTube and earning money is easy. Becoming successful takes a little extra work.

Three young employees of Paypal came up with idea of creating a video sharing website in 2005 when Jawed Karim, one of the founders, couldn't find some video he wanted on the internet. The first video was uploaded on April 23, 2005 by Jawed only, titled "Me at the zoo", which had him visiting the San Diego Zoo. The video has more than 35 million views on YouTube right now.

The site grew rapidly with more than 65,000 new videos being uploaded daily within its first year of official launch. The service caught Google's eyes and the Internet giant bought the video sharing site for US $1.65 Billion on 13th November, 2006.
