

Looks suspiciously a lot like a speaker we reviewed recently streaming TV boxes in the form of Apple TV and a pretty amazing music streaming service in Apple Music. And now that Apple owns Beats, it makes some wireless headphones that are generally too overpriced. Phew! Honestly, we need to stop emphasising this. It's Apple. Everything they make is bound to have a few extra zeros in its price tag.

Finally, coming to accessories for its products, you have a company with a huge product catalogue and a sizable software list to go along with it. Truly, one of the tech giants of our time and it doesn't seem to be going anywhere any time soon. With that lets dive deep into the first product range that started it all – the Mac. 