

MACBOOK

The portable family of Apple computers has been iconic since its very inception. Find out why.

The MacBook is a laptop-style computer designed and manufactured by Apple. The product was first released in May 2006. However, the device was discontinued in February 2012 but relaunched in 2015. The product line-up consists of MacBook, MacBook Air and MacBook Pro. While the MacBook Air model is a premium ultra-portable notebook, the MacBook Pro variant is a powerful device. Initially, the MacBook was designed using a combo of polycarbonate and fiberglass casing.

In 2008, the Cupertino-based Apple extensively used unibody aluminum casing and polycarbonate unibody casing in the model released towards the end of 2009. After the discontinuation of the MacBook on July 20, 2011,
