

Google Advertisements

Ads served by Google appearing on websites have a lot going on in the background. Do you want to know more?

Have you ever been freaked out while browsing on the web and finding content related to your search results showing up as ads on every website you visit? This isn't something new and it has been happening for a long time with Google Ads doing its magic. Not just the web browser, you'll be able to spot related ads on all platforms including your smartphones and across different applications. So how does Google advertising work? What are the services and tools provided by Google to help businesses acquire clients and make money online? We'll be answering these questions and more in this chapter.
