Out of sight, out of mind goes the saying. You need to put yourself out there if you want to get work. Not a marketing guru? Rest easy, here are a few pro tips to get you started

Freelancers seem to have it all. The flexibility of working hours, the freedom to work out of the comfort of their own couches, the joy of working in a pair of boxer shorts perhaps, etc. As glamorous (or not) this sounds, it's far from reality. Most successful freelancers are known to love what they do but might actually be the most hardworking bunch of people you will ever meet. Why the hard work, you
