

than what you have received on your fees. In that case, you will get a refund from the government.

Remember, any service or product that you have used or purchased and has charged you GST, you can use it as input credit. Paying GST on your office internet bill? Use it for input credit. Had a business meeting at a cafe? Use the GST for input credit. You will need to check with a Chartered Accountant to understand the breadth of the items you can use for input credit. There are a total of 37 tax returns to be filed, 3 every quarter and one annual. It's a good idea to hire a CA to take care of this aspect for you.

Hopefully, this has given you a fairly good idea on the necessity of contract and the clauses you should include. Don't be fazed with drafting a contract or raising an invoice with GST, it's not rocket science. 