

motivation to do better. Such networks function as a yardstick to articulate competitive strength and improve.

Bring in the tool kit

A freelancer has to function like a well-oiled machine. As a freelancer you need to be able to balance multiple tasks and roles at the same time. In order to manage your assets properly, it is crucial to have an organised operating system to ease functionality. A freelance business requires systems and tools as much as it requires talent. Thus, every freelancer needs to conduct a thorough analysis to identify the tools critical to his or her business. A freelancer may be an independent worker, free of the shackles of a corporate structure, yet he or she is expected to adhere to professional standards. For which, investment into tools and equipment must be made.

A freelancer needs to juggle all his roles while keeping his zen.

It is important for a freelancer to be prepared with his tools to conduct business. For example, a freelance digital marketer who handles search engine optimisation, paid tools like Ubersuggest which provide him necessary insight into keywords are of utmost importance. He will have to put in the initial investment into purchasing such tools for his work.